Report on Town History.

Our work during the past year has been of the same order as the year preceding. A good degree of progress has been made considering all circumstances.

The genealogical and biographical departments have received much attention. The records of nearly a hundred family names are prepared for the printer; also several articles are nearly ready in the other departments. The church history has received much attention, also the military, and considerable material has been collected for the educational department.

Much time has been devoted to all of the above; but only a part of it has been reckoned in our account, so anxious are we to minimize the expenses and accomplish results.

We would suggest and urge our fellow-townsmen to a deeper interest in the work. It is worthy of it. Come and examine your family records, and see if they are correct.

Report of the School Board.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF CORNISH :

The period having been reached at which this report is due it is with pleasant reflections that we are enabled to say that your schools during the past year have shown an increased interest over those of previous years.

Having secured the services of teachers who stand in the front rank as educators for the more advanced schools, the result of their work has fully met our expectations, and a good degree of improvement has been made in all of the schools. The teachers, it is fair to say, have worked faithfully. The failing, in a few instances, we have most reason to complain of, was the order. It is a fact this important element is too much neglected. If all scholars are made to understand at home they are to attend school regularly and punctually, that the rules of school are for them to obey, we certainly should see a greater advancement in our schools. We would gladly report the conditions and progress of the several schools and the merits of each teacher as they appeared to us on visiting them, but space will not allow.

We need the best of teachers and the support of the inhabitants, and by mutual effort we can hope for larger achievements.

Tax payers should not feel that a little assistance rendered our school is a burden. To secure the best teachers we must compete with the surrounding towns and pay living wages. We would urge upon parents and citizens to visit their schools oftener. We are led to believe by so doing much fault finding would cease.

We are pleased to state that the children of school age have attended school as required by law, with a few exceptions, and have had the advantage of thirty-one weeks schooling, save Division 7 which closed after twenty-six weeks.

Parents have very kindly assisted the School Board in bringing about this result.

We would call your attention to the important consideration which is agitating the minds of educators of our state, viz. the decimation of our schools. The older portion of our citizens can recall the time when it was necessary to locate school houses where we now find them; and that these houses were filled. But times have changed. Communities have become nearly depopulated. Our scholars are growing less and less. The report of the Truant Officer's enumeration of scholars in town between 5 and 16 years of age is boys 59, girls 72. There is no prospect of our small schools increasing from local population.

Now, in the language of the good woman of Revolutionary times, who, when the British were marching to Lexington, called out to her boy, "Jonathan, get up, the red coats are coming; something must be done." We say something must be done.

The law passed the last general court requiring the School Board to see a United States flag placed in a proper manner over every school house when schools were in session has been complied with except Division 9. No school was in session at the time. Much credit is due citizens, teachers and scholars in contributing staffs and erecting them with appropriate exercises.

The house in Division 5 has been thoroughly repaired and reseated; so that it is now considered the prettiest room in town. The citizens contributed in aiding the work in many ways.

While the cost exceeds the amount of repair fund left over, we felt justified in completing the work. Other repairs have been made in Divisions 2, 3, 6, 9, 10 and 11. We would recommend the house in Division 3 be repaired and painted.

In closing our connection with the schools in town, we would acknowledge our obligation to the citizens for many expressions of interest manifested. Also the teachers and scholars for their courtesy and entertaining exercises we have heard in the school room.

School meeting March 12th, at one o'clock p. m., Town Hall.
